AMERICAN INTERVENTION LOOMS IN CHINA

PURCHASE BY SYNDICATE OF BRAND CORNER

Modern Building Will Be Erected at Expiration of Leases, Report

A NEW high water mark for realty values in the business district has been reached in the largest sale of its kind in the history of Glendale. The southeast corner of Colorado street and Brand boulevard has been sold for $150,000.

A syndicate which was organized by the Roy L. Kent Company of 130 South Brand boulevard, has just purchased this property from Mrs. Camilla Smith of 809 North Verdugo road. Members of this syndicate are Roy L. Kent and A. L. Baird of 130 South Brand boulevard; Dr. E. H. Parker of 426 North Maryland avenue; Harry G. MacBain of 636 East Broadway; A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State Bank at 109 East Broadway; Francis J. W. Henry of 224 Arden avenue, manager of the Henry-Brown Beverage Company of 602 East Wilson avenue; and Dr. T. C. Young of 20 East Broadway.

The property has a frontage of 55 feet on Brand boulevard and 16 feet on Colorado street. It contains the Willard battery service station operated by the E. W. Zek Auto Electric Company, and a real estate office of E. G. Warren. A two story building at 14 South Brand boulevard was built until a few days ago by the Robinson Brothers Transfer Storage Company. To the south another one-story building, which contains the real estate office of N. L. Dutton, "The Home Under." In the rear is the Murphy-Doner garage.

Price $1000 Front Foot

The price of $150,000 for this property means $1000 a front foot. According to Roy L. Kent, it establishes a new value for business frontage. The transaction has been put into escrow at the Glendale State Bank at 109 East Broadway and every effort is to be made to have pushed through the necessary formalities in about six weeks. Mrs. Camilla Smith is the widow of Charles C. Smith, who died about year ago. He was one of the pioneer builders of this community and one of the first to foresee a future of Glendale. As soon as this transaction has been completed, Mrs. Smith is planning to make an extensive tour of Europe. As soon as the Robinson Brothers Transfer & Storage Company's lease has expired, which will be a couple of months, the syndicate is planning to remodel its building and divide the lower into stores. Several other uses of tenants run about three years. When they have all expired, it is planned to tear down the present structures and erect modern building which will cover the entire property.

MODERN LIFE IN NEED OF CROSS, IS CLAIM

World on Threshold of Big Moral Re-Discovery, Says Speaker

"Thoughtful observers are conscious of something lacking in our modern life," said Rev. John Gardner, of Riverside, speaking at yesterday afternoon's 5 o'clock vesper service of the Congregational Conference, held in the First Congregational church, corner of North Central and West Wilson avenues.

"We misapprehend the great, mystical meaning of the cross," was the way Rev. Gardner analyzed the situation. "We are too material-minded today. The difference between the admirer and the lover of Jesus lies in the cross."

"You can admire Jesus and hold a philosophical attitude toward him; but if you love Jesus, if the thought of the cross and its deep spiritual meaning thrills you, then your attitude is bound to be religious."

Near to Re-Discovery "The world is on the threshold of a great moral re-discovery—the cross. The story of the early Christians centers about the cross. It was with them, as it should and must be with us, a dream, an impulse, a power, a challenge, a principle of life.

"There is no more important study for the church today than the motives of Jesus and the significance of the cross."

This service, which produced the above very thoughtful remarks, opened with an organ prelude by A. E. Angier. Rev. Charles M. Calderwood presided. Rev. Thomas Lutzman, of Los Angeles, gave the invocation.

Following Rev. Gardner's address, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. James H. Lash and Rev. Edwin P. Ryland, of Los Angeles, after which there was an offering for ministerial relief, and then benediction.

Noted Woman Speaks The principal address of the evening session of the conference was delivered by Mrs. Amelia H. Reinhardt, president of Mills college, California. Her subject was "Christ in the Education of Today."

"The great war and the years following have demonstrated that something is lacking. In our life of today," Mrs. Reinhardt said, "reiterating the opening challenge of Rev. Gardner, at the vesper service."

"Millions of our boys and girls are growing up without religious education, because the home, the school and the church each seem to feel it is the duty of the other."

"Could the Christian church have prevented the great war, which is not yet over? That is a question we have heard much, in the past few years. And what ever the answer, this much at least is certain—without the Christian church, civilization would not have survived."

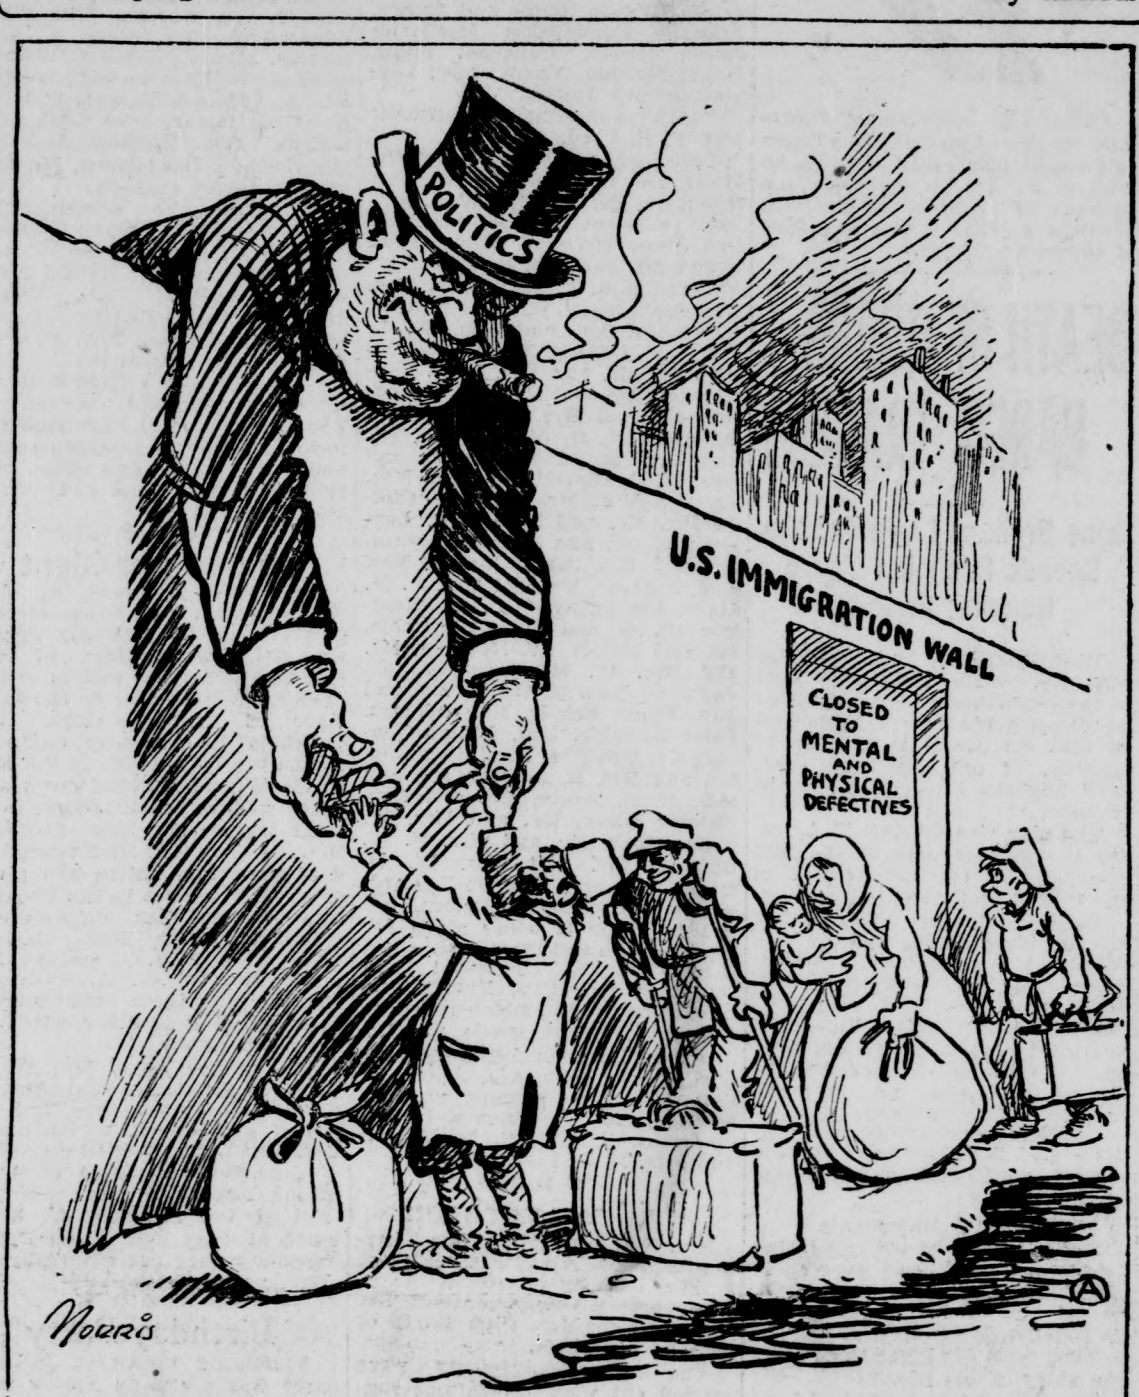

"As the empires of the old world fell, and as new hands took up the tools of government, to build civilization anew, Christianity—ever since Rome—made possible the task, keeping aflame the light of the Christ in cloistered monasteries, through-out the dark ages."

"The whole of modern civilization is due to Christianity. We have had, through courage and faith, a noble past. Surely we can yet find the courage and the faith to carry onward to a nobler future."

History of Church Mrs. Reinhardt then briefly traced the history of the Christian church in America, pointing out (Continued on Page 3)

CHAUTAUQUA WILL OPEN ON FRIDAY

Committee Decides to Give But One Performance on Sunday, in Afternoon

Plans for the Chautauqua, which opens Friday night in a tent to be erected on the southwest corner of Harvard and Orange streets, were discussed at a meeting of guarantors last night in the Central Christian church.

Mrs. Mary F. Dalton, representative of the Ellison-White Chautauqua announced herself well pleased with the preliminary arrangements. She complimented the guarantors upon their work.

Attention was called to the fact that the comedy "Turn to the Right," which opens the bill is not a one-man play like "Cappy Ricks" but has five well balanced parts.

By unanimous vote it was decided to combine the matinee and evening performance Sunday in a double program for the afternoon. This was done in order that the evening program might not interfere with church services.

The first half of the program will consist of a concert by Charles Mitchell's Mixer's Orchestral Quartet. The second half of the program will be a recital by James Hamilton, lyric tenor, and the orchestral quartet.

Reserved Seat Sale Reserved seats will be placed on sale tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the Glendale Bookstore, 113 South Brand boulevard.

The seats in the reserved section will sell at a dollar apiece for the entire week," remarked L. A. Hart, president of the local Chautauqua committee. "No person can reserve more than six seats at a time. This limitation is necessary in order that the good seats may be evenly distributed among those holding season tickets."

Wearing Straw Hats Here Snow in the vicinity of Chicago and sunshine in Glendale and vicinity!

Straw hats have already made their appearance on some heads here, although it is not officially straw hat day until next week. However, the nice sunshine of yesterday and today forced the straw lids a little ahead of time.

The weather man says that it will be fair and warm tonight and Wednesday. But why worry. Remember, it's snowing in the middle west!

CAPTIVES TO DIE UNLESS PURSUIT HALTS

Chinese Bandit Chief Sends Emissary With Death Threat to Troops

By EDNA LEE BOOKER For International News Service SHANTUNG, May 8.—The Chinese bandits, who held up a Shanghai-Peking passenger train, seizing about 150 persons, including many Americans, near the Shantung peninsula, today sent out an emissary threatening death to all the captives, unless the pursuing Chinese regular soldiers are recalled.

The emissary, an American commercial traveler and writer named Thomas Day, was a passenger on the train, being captured along with the others. A Chinese interpreter was sent with him from the robbers' stronghold in the mountains.

(This was the first direct word from the brigands since the passenger train was wrecked and looted near the Yellow river on Sunday. Contrary to a report in the United States, the bandits made no mention of ransom, their only demand being that the troops be called off from further pursuit.)

Day arrived at Tien Tsin with his message from the brigands. He was weak from severe traveling, exposure and lack of rest. He sent to the Shanghai bureau of International News Service the following narrative supplementing the graphic account of the raid given previously.

Beaten With Gun Bullets

"The march from the scene of the attack to the mountains was a ghastly nightmare. The brigands wielded their gun bullets right and left, forcing the weary prisoners onward with blows and curses. "The cries of hysterical women and children rang through the darkness."

"The night was pitch black. There was no moon. But the men in the captive gang were helpless. They were partly clothed, suffering from pain and shock and in a strange, wild country. There was not a single way in which they could communicate with agencies of aid."

"The captives were divided into small parties. Each group was heavily guarded and hustled forward at top speed towards the mountains. Sometimes a prisoner would stop and attempt to dig burrs from his bare feet. The Chinese would grunt a warning. If it was disregarded a slap in the face or a poke with a rifle barrel would follow."

"With the coming of dawn they reached a towering mountain. "On the way two of the women prisoners had fallen exhausted. "The bandits were led by a hard faced ruffian with a mean eye. He told me to take a Chinese interpreter and go out with a message to the soldiers."

"The bandit chief ordered me to take an interpreter with me as I cannot speak Chinese. I was to act as middleman in taking the message to the soldiers."

"Exhausted and shivering, barefooted and dressed only in night clothes, I was forced down the hillside to tell the soldiers to stop firing or all the captives would be killed."

"I believe that R. Jacobson, a prominent Danish business man, and Miss Schonberg, a French girl, from New York, escaped in a similar way after having been sent out as messengers to the soldiers. As soon as possible, I made for the Tien Tsin railway."

Train Sets Record in L. A. to Chicago Run

CHICAGO, May 8.—Another trans-continental speed record, this one on land, was established today when a special train carrying David Benton Jones, seriously ill with cancer, arrived here today from Los Angeles in 47 hours and 17 minutes running time, including stops for water and to change engines. The previous record of 44 hours and 54 minutes, including no stops, was made in July, 1905, by "Death Valley Scotty."

BRIGANDS FLEE TO MOUNTAIN FASTNESS AS TROOPS PURSUE

Scale of Ransom Is Fixed at $50,000 for American Bandit Victims

By EDNA LEE BOOKER For International News Service SHANGHAI, May 8.—The Chinese bandits who held up the Shanghai-Peking express with their loot and captives, including many Americans, have plunged further into the recesses of the mountains of South Shantung and troops guided to their hiding place by an escaped Chinese found their quarry flown.

The bandits fled when they learned that the Chinese troops were approaching to attack them, according to word brought back by the escaped Chinese. He was able to get away from his captors due to his knowledge of the mountains in which he had once lived. He declares the bandits had reached a wild and mountainous section in which it will be difficult to find them and even more difficult to dislodge them.

Chief Holds Court The Chinese told a dramatic story of a court held by the fierce bandit chieftain in a small valley hidden in the mountains, the first hiding place of the bandits.

One by one the captives were forced to march before the bandit leader. In each case he demanded their occupation, apparently deciding by this means their ability to pay ransom.

After the court had been held and he conferred with his sub-chiefs, the Chinese said, the bandit chief announced the following scale of ransom:

Scale of Ransoms Foreigners, $50,000 each. Rich Chinese, $10,000 each. Well-to-do Chinese, $10,000 each. Poorest class of Chinese, $2000 each.

Two Chinese succeeded in escaping from the mountain stronghold of the bandits. One made his way to the headquarters of Defense Commissioner Yunchow, who is directing the chase, and the other made for the railroad to bring the third chapter of the thrilling chase to the world through International News Service.

Commissioner Yunchow hurried a large force of troops to the hiding place pointed out by the Chinese guide. Evidences of the hasty flight of the bandits and their captives were found, but they had made a clean getaway.

CHINESE ARE READY FOR BATTLE

Desperate Fight Expected Before Bandits Will Release Captives

Following is another installment of the first eyewitness account of the spectacular raid by Chinese bandits upon a passenger train near Shantung peninsula, where about 150 persons, including American men, women and children, were forced to march in the hands of the bandits.

The United States is represented in the council by Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the American minister, whose overnight reports to Washington emphasized the seriousness with which the general situation in China is regarded by the ambassadors of the foreign governments.

Will Frame Demands The expectation prevails here that the council of diplomats will frame a joint set of demands upon the pending government for immediate release of the prisoners and set a time limit for this to be accomplished. The penalty of failure will be punitive action by the powers themselves with the troops now available there, it is believed.

The ambassadors already have informed the Peking government it will be expected to furnish the ransom demanded by the bandits for release of the Americans.

Peking Authorities Ordered To Ransom Captives From Brigands

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, May 8.—Miss Lucy Aldrich is safe at Tsin Tien, together with her maid, Miss Minnie McFadden of Ogdensburg, N. Y., and Miss Edith M. Schonberg, of Connecticut, the state department was advised today by the American minister at Peking.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The United States will wait a "reasonable time" for the tottering Peking government to effect the release of the Americans carried off by Chinese brigands, but if they are not speedily rescued, then sterner measures will be resorted to, it was learned today.

Stern measures may be the employment of American troops now stationed in China—the doughboys of the Fifteenth United States infantry, the Marines of the legation guard, or blue jackets from the Asiatic fleet.

President Harding today advanced the hour for the cabinet meeting from 11 o'clock to 10 o'clock. No reason was assigned for the advancement.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A council of ambassadors and ministers, representing all the great powers, is meeting in Peking today to decide upon a course of action in the Chinese crisis.

brought about by the robbing and plundering of foreign travelers on the Peking-Shanghai express, it was announced at the state department today.

Formal demand was made upon the Peking government this morning by the American, British and Italian ministers, that all of their nationals held captive by the bandits be immediately ransomed by the Peking government itself, and that this action be followed by prompt punitive measures against the brigands.

The formal demand that the Peking government immediately produce the requested ransom money, estimated at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, and take punitive steps at once, was conveyed to the Chinese foreign office this morning by Dr. Batalha De Freitas, the Portuguese minister, who, as dean of the diplomatic corps, is spokesman for the powers in matters of joint action.

Secretary of State Hughes made a full report on the Chinese situation to the cabinet meeting at the White House today and after considerable discussion, it was decided to await developments before deciding upon any drastic course of action.

Joint international action by the powers forecast yesterday in International News Service dispatches, thus appears assured.

Daily HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS

By Dr. Otey

If you knew this was your last day of life and I came to you and could by a miracle grant you ten years more, what wouldn't you give?

What would you give? Would you give a half hour of your time three times a week for a while and a small portion of your accumulated savings?

You would? Would you, really?

Well! I cannot give you that ten years if you wait till your last day, but it is reasonable to expect ten years of added active life (beyond what you can otherwise have) if you have osteopathy put into condition and maintain your every organ and function at 100 per cent efficiency.

Osteopathy adds years to your life and life to your years. I mean this seriously and literally. Now, I want to thank my reader audience for the attention they have given these week attempts to carry the truths of Osteopathy to the reading public.

We will now change the nature of the appeal and submit in this space daily a series of Osteopathic Epigrams which, it is believed, will be found of interest to the seeker after perfect health.

If you would have Osteopathy (that is a little out of the ordinary) lengthen the autumn of your life into a long and glorious Indian Summer, phone Glendale 2201 for appointment at the office or at your home.

Watch this space tomorrow.

DEATH OF GUARD BARES TRAGEDY

Once Brilliant Latin Scholar Spends Declining Years Running Errands

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Filed with the health department here is the registration of the death of an obscure old man. Embodied in that certificate is a story of tragedy, of unfulfilled romance, of a blighted life—and of more tragedy.

The man was William T. Ayres, for the greater part of the last two years of his life a guard in the United States capital.

No one knew of Ayres or his life in Washington, and no one cared. A grim-faced, white-haired old man, he went silently about his daily duties. No complaints were ever registered against his work, but no one ever took the trouble to look into it. He had no friends, and he made no effort to acquire any.

"Ayres is a silent old man," finally said his superiors at the capital. And with that they dismissed him.

Dies with Pneumonia
Out of work and with no friend to go to, the old man gave up in his final struggle with life and, at the age of 79, succumbed to pneumonia.

Then from his home town came the story of his life.

For forty years Ayres had been professor of Latin at DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind. Of giant intellect, a master in his field, his was the most familiar face on the campus.

But, even then, at the height of his career, life to Ayres was an empty shell. Stark tragedy already had seared his heart. During his college days at the same university where he later became one of the most respected members of the faculty, the great Latin scholar became enamored with a beautiful girl attending the school. They became engaged.

Buried in Trounceau
Then, shortly before the wedding day, the girl fell sick and died. She was buried on her wedding day in her bridal trousseau—and Ayres' hopes and dreams were shattered.

Ayres became a recluse. He never married. Several years later he accepted the chair of Latin at DePauw, remaining there for forty years.

Ageing even more rapidly than most men, Ayres two years ago came to the final turning point in his life. Too old to teach and without funds, the old man sacrificed his pride on the altar of necessity and appealed to Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, one of his former pupils, for aid.

Senator Watson secured his old teacher a place on the capitol guard. There the old man lived out the last two years of his life, guiding sightseers through the building, running errands for irritable young congressmen and doing the thousand and one onerous odd jobs incident to his position.

Women Flock to Sale Conducted by Police

PLAN FOR REUNION
An all day rally and reunion of former residents of Delaware and Maryland will be held Saturday, May 12, at Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles. All former residents of that state are urged to be present and to pass the word along to others. Take a day off to meet the old friends, bringing a basket dinner with you. Hot coffee will be served at noon. County registrars will be open all day and silk souvenir badges will be used.

Mrs. C. L. Peckham of 615 North Central avenue was elected president of the recently organized Glendale auxiliary of the Children's Hospital society at the meeting held Monday on the third floor of Pendroy's store. Mrs. Peckham is eminently qualified as she has been active in the Red Cross, Women's Relief corps and other welfare organizations.

At the regular May meeting, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, first vice-president presiding, notice was given of several changes in the by-laws. One provides for an associate membership for five dollars. Chapter BA, P. E. O., and the Colorado Street P. T. A. were the first to take these memberships. It is hoped that other organizations will follow.

The resignation of Mrs. D. W. Brant on account of contemplated absence from the city was accepted, and Mrs. F. W. Kille, 465 Oak street, was elected secretary.

A generous donation of white flannel by Mrs. Pendroy enabled the auxiliary to begin work at once and a number of garments were cut out ready for distribution.

Changes By Club

At the meeting of the Glendale Music club of which Mrs. Mattison Jones is president, several amendments to the by-laws were adopted which it is hoped will materially increase the membership and make it possible for the club to have a more permanent home next year.

One of the amendments to the by-laws provides for a patron membership at $10. This entitles the holder to two season membership tickets.

Another change eliminates the initiation fee and provides that the dues for old members shall be $4 per annum and for new members $5, but no initiation fee is required. All dues are payable on or before September 1.

Plans were completed for the benefit concert to be given for the talented young violinist, Miss Hazel Linkogel, a member of the Junior Music club, Thursday, May 24, in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

Charles Wakefield Cadman, the well-known composer, is much interested in Miss Linkogel's work as a violinist, and with Margaret Messer Morris, will assist at the concert.

Co-operation of all clubs and organizations, musical or otherwise, is urged as Miss Linkogel has given freely of her talent to all Glendale.

SCORES OF BILLS CERTAIN OF DEATH

More Than 200 Measures Are on Files and Adjournment Date Nears

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, May 8.—Progress blocked by the anti-administration forces' fight on the governor's budget bill veto, the assembly of the California legislature today faces more than 200 bills on file and four working days to complete the job. The last week of session must be given over to senate measures. What will be lost in the shuffle is the question.
Perhaps things of sufficient importance will remain unfinished to cause an extra session.

Los Angeles was dealt a hard blow last night when the senate judiciary committee tabled the Lyons bill providing for its condemnation of the Southern Sier-ras Power company holdings in the Owens river gorge. By lacking legislative authority to oust this private concern, the metropolis of Los Angeles loses water and power sufficient for 300,000 additional people, according to R. W.
Robinson, special counsel. However, there were two sides to the question from those opposing the city of Los Angeles.

Terry Stephenson, Santa Ana editor, said: "We view with alarm the plans of Los Angeles in dominating our part of the state."

Would Hamper Tourists
A warm fight took place in the California senate yesterday when Senator Hueley's bill making it mandatory that residents of this state be used on public works was defeated.

The southern legislature held this would hamper tourists in becoming residents by denying them work. It was pointed out that this measure was considered out of all proportion to the evil it might work. Informally, however, it might be a good practice on the part of officials.

Both houses of the legislature are struggling against time in grinding out the many appropriation bills and other measures which seem likely of signature by the governor. Only ten days more to go and the session will be a matter of history.

Sunset Club Names Three New Directors

The regular annual and postponed meeting of the Sunset Canyon Country club, held at Trinity Auditorium, Los Angeles, May 5, resulted in the election of the following named members, constituting the new board of directors for the ensuing year: H. T.
Bridges and W. O. Cline of Hollywood, and Dr. C. Stuart Steelman of Glendale, unanimously chosen.
The report of the investigating committee constituting the above-named board of directors, including A. D. Pearce of Glendale and J. H. Alvard of Los Angeles, the legal counsel of the club, proposed a settlement by which the members were to acquire all property and improvements connected with the club.

The new board of directors are desirous of impressing upon the respective members that in the future all business and affairs of the club shall be run strictly in accord with the wishes of the members.

mayor, that if he would file a gation with the council the matter would be inquired into. James declared that he was discharged without cause.

U. S. AND BRITAIN IN CLOSE RACE

Two Countries Are Leaders
In Number of Tourists
Visiting Switzerland

Lucerne, Switzerland, May 8.— England and the United States are running a close race for the honor of having the most tourists of any single country in Switzerland during one year, according to figures compiled in Lucerne's official information bureau.

So far England always has led,
but this year the contest may result in a dead heat, in the opinion of Miss Elizabeth Peyer, directrix of the bureau.
Last year the American tourists who visited Lucerne alone numbered 20,000. England sent 30,000 figures for other Swiss resorts were comparatively the same.

Americans Favored
"The Americans are our favorites, however," Miss Peyer says.
"They have a wonderful spirit we like. They have money, and they are willing to spend it. The price doesn't matter" seems to be their favorite expression.

Switzerland's tourist trade since the war has never come up to the maximum reached in pre-war years, when Germans, Russians and Austrians represented about 50 per cent of the total number of tourists in any one year.

Now the Germans and Russians are unable to come on account of unfavorable exchange rates, and "no one ever speaks of the Austrians any more," is the way the Swiss put it.

Till New Fields
To make up for the loss of the people of these three nationalities the Swiss have been cultivating and propagandizing the Scandinavians and Hollanders. But this year they, also, are cut off on account of disruption of railroad traffic by the Ruhr occupation.

Different nationalities come to Switzerland at different times of the year, according to Swiss hotel proprietors. After the winter season, patronized by a sprinkling of all nationalities, the English usually are the first to appear in the warm weather resorts, coming around Easter time.

In April and May the Scandinavians have been partly taking the place of the Germans, Russians and Austrians. The Americans arrive in June, July and August, and the English usually close the season, also in September.

Future U. S. Woman Beautiful Composite

CHICAGO, May 8.—The American woman of tomorrow will be beautiful.

Take the word of Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., of New York, for this prediction. And Ziegfeld ought to know, inasmuch as he has been inspecting girls of all types and degrees of pulchritude for many years.

While this judge of feminine beauty was visiting here recently he was asked upon what grounds he made this statement. To this he replied:

"The composite of perfect womanly beauty will have an American figure, mouth and teeth and Italian eyes and nose and an Irish complexion. Qualities of other nations won't be needed."

Judges Give Advice On Curbing Divorce

ELYRIA, O., May 8.—"Cut the expenses and extravagances," is the recipe voiced by Common Pleas Judge A. R. Webster for curbing divorce evils. "Change the laws.
Nationalize them," declares Judge
W. B. Thompson. With Lorain county's population less than one-tenth what it was fifty years ago, records show that 177 divorces granted last year, compared with twenty-two a half century ago.
Last year there were 559 marriages, compared with 455 in 1873. Most of the marriages fifty years ago were consummated when the parties were very young. Today many of those married are elderly persons.

Mrs. Robert A. Allen, wife of Major Allen, of the medical corps, U. S. A., and Mrs. Pinger, were released. They were taken on board a relief train, sent from Peking, and brought to Shanghai. On the train they were treated by a physician and given food for the first time in twelve hours. They were suffering from cuts and bruises and lacerated feet. After warm food and rest they were all right.

Here is her graphic story, told to International News Service, through me, by Mrs. Allen:

"Major Allen showed resistance when the bandits entered my compartment, but my son cried out:
'Go on with them, papa. I will stay with mother.'"

"I was forced from the train in my night gown and in my bare feet. The robbers seemed to be in a great hurry and would give no one time to dress.

The roadbed of the railway was made of sharp cinders, and as my feet were badly cut as soon as I jumped down from the train steps,
I was separated from my family at once. The train had been carefully searched. Fifteen bandits were carrying loot in blankets swung over their shoulders.

Beaten by Captors
"All were armed. Two of the Chinese, burly fellows, with dark, evil faces, drove Mrs. Pinger and myself before them for three hours.

"They carried long-barreled rifles in their hands.
"When our strength gave way, they beat us and slapped us. Finally when we fell prostrate and were unable to move another foot, they left us there with a brigand standing guard over us.

"For two hours we were huddled on the ground in the cold, shivering, and wondering what would be our ultimate fate. The brigand walked up and down, at times,
swinging his rifle, to keep warm.
At other times he squatted down with us.

"After a time a detachment of regular soldiers came up in pursuit of the brigands. They gave us blankets to wrap ourselves in and a little coarse food. They assisted us back to the railway line in time for the train for Tien Tsin."

Oil King's Relative
In Chinese Hospital

SHANGHAI, May 8.—Miss Lucy T. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and her maid, Minnie McFadden, who were released after being seized from a train by bandits, were reported today to be in a hospital at Tsinanfu, Shantung province, not far from the scene of the raid.

Their condition is not serious and it is expected that they will be able to proceed to Peking immediately. They were suffering from fright, shock and exposure.

Chicagoans Wage War On Rental Increase

CHICAGO, May 8.—The Tenants' league is mobilizing its forces once more to resist Chicago landlords who may seek to boost rents on May 1, according to Grace
H. Hart, the league's attorney.

Miss Hart declared that 50,000
Chicago tenants of apartment houses and residences have agreed to refuse to sign leases on the places they occupy, and even though they may be served with eviction papers, will "stand pat" and refuse to move.

Wife Comes First, Defaulter Is Told

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—"Your wife comes before your mother," Judge Summerfield told Harry E.
Shaffer recently, when he was cited for failure to pay $12 weekly to Ethel Schaffer, his divorced wife, and gave the excuse that he had his mother to support.

"I haven't the money; I only secured a position recently," Shaffer said, when asked about the payments he had failed to make since last October.

May Launch Soldiers On Trail of Thugs

ere they constitute virtually an ultimatum to Peking, the exact language and its methods of presentation being left to the discretion of the ambassadors and ministers.

To Set Time Limit
The three most interested nations are the United States, Great Britain, Italy, the nationals of these powers being among those held captive. It is understood, however, that diplomatic representatives of France, Japan and the Netherlands are co-operating.

Exactly how much time has been allotted to the Chinese government to comply with the demands is not known. Apparently this also has been left to the judgment of the diplomats on the ground, who are in a better position to judge conditions.

Fourteen men, including some Americans, among whom are probably Major Robert T. Allen and Major Roland W. Hinger, American officers, are still held by the bandits today, according to latest advices to the state department.

Keen Interest Shown In Vidor Experiment

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—Los Angeles couples who have passed the honeymoon stage awaited today with keen interest the latest development in the marital experimentation of Florence Vidor beautiful screen star, and her husband, King Vidor, motion picture director.

The Vidores are now being friends, instead of husband and wife, it was reported. Although married, but living under separate roofs, they go about together, and not divorce or legal separation is imminent, they declared.

The experiment may last a week or years, they said, until a satisfactory solution of their individual problems on marital relations are worked out. The Vidores have been known as one of the most happily married couples in moviedom. They were silent as to their motives for the experiment.

French Remove Tax From Ruhr Exports

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The French government has capitulated on the question of the ten per cent ad valorem export tax, established in the Ruhr at the time of the French occupation and has agreed to remove this tax, it was officially reported here. Imposition of the tax by the French resulted in strong American and British protests.

The centennial of the production of the world's best loved song—"Home, Sweet Home"—is being internationally celebrated. One hundred years ago, John Howard Payne wrote "Clari," or the "Maid of Milan," a play that, as a whole, is forgotten, while one of its songs, "Home, Sweet Home," has become immortal. Payne was born in New York City, June 9, 1792, of an English ancestry. At the age of seventeen he lost his father, and, being compelled to leave college, turned his attention to the stage, first as an actor, later as a writer.

On the evening of May 8, 1823, just one hundred years ago today, at Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, London, Miss Marie Tree sang the famous words, set to a melody that Payne had heard a peasant girl sing in Italy.

Within five years, the song's fame had encircled the globe. Today, a century later, all who love music and home, pause in honor of that "opening" night of long ago.

May 5 to 12 has been set aside as a "Better Living Room Week," suggesting new beauty for the room that is the heart of the home.

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

'Mid pleasures and palaces tho' I may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;
A charm from the skies seems to hallow me there,
Which, seek thru the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.

I gaze on the moon as I tread the drear wild,
And feel that my mother now thinks of her child;
She looks at that moon from our cottage door,
Thro' woodbine, whose fragrance shall cheer me no more.

An exile from home, splendor dazzles in vain,
Oh, give me my lowly thatched cottage again;
The birds singing gaily, that came at my call,
Give me then, sweet peace of mind, dearer than all.

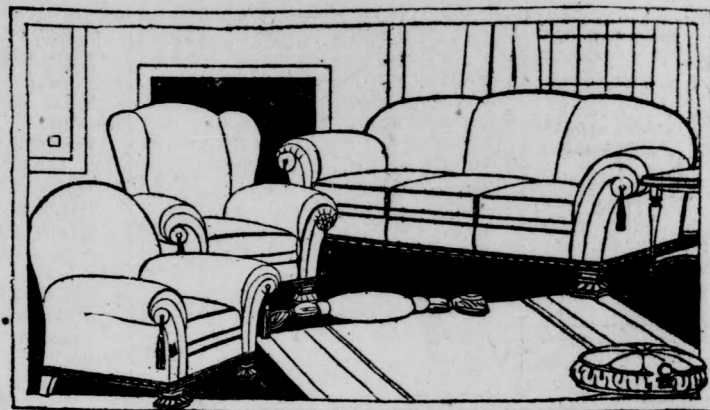

If I return home, overburdened with care,
The heart's dearest solace I'm sure to have there,
The bliss I experience whenever I come,
Makes no place seem like that home.

Farewell, peaceful cottage! Farewell happy home!
Forever I'm doomed a poor exile to roam;
This poor aching heart must be laid in the tomb
Ere it cease to regret the endearment of home.

REFRAIN

Home, Home
Sweet, Sweet Home.
There's no place like home,
Oh, there's no place like home.

RATE LOVE SURE PATH TO BLISS

Actress Scoffs at New York Physician Who Puts Gold Ahead of Heart-Bond

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, May 5.—Love, and love alone, is the best guarantee of a happy married life, in the opinion of Miss Jose Collins, noted actress and star of one of the most successful plays now being performed on the London stage.

The advice given by Dr. J. C. Main, a New York physician, that people should "marry for money or social position—but not for love," led Miss Collins to fly to the defense of the marriage that is founded on the deepest affection. She ridiculed the idea that the bankbook should replace the wedding ring as the symbol of successful matrimony.

"The advice of Dr. Main seems reminiscent of that given by the canny old Scot to his son—only more so," said Miss Collins. "The Scot said: 'Don't marry money but marry where money is.' Dr. Main goes one better. He says: 'Don't marry for love, marry where money is.'"

"And the laughter of all the happy married lovers all the world over will drown this truly ridiculous theory."

"Don't marry for love! What advice to give to a young girl who has found the most wonderful boy in the world! What advice to give to a young man—father to a son—when all the world has been transfigured by somebody's eyes, somebody's voice, somebody's lips!

"Marriage so far as is humanly possible must be based on something solid. Which is better, money or love? Money can be lost in a thousand ways, and if the marriage has no other sanction, what an appalling plight, then, for both partners to it. No sympathy, no gentleness—in short, no love."

"It would be cant, of course, to pretend that money has no place at all in the scheme of things. Money smoothes out many difficulties. But it cannot give us the greatest thing life has to offer; it cannot give us love."

Love Scorns Disaster

"Love, the real thing, stands four square to the world. It laughs at bank smashes, at war, at every disaster of our scheme of things. For that reason it is best to start the journey which begins with the wedding bells with love in one's luggage. True, it may be mislaid later on, but generally it survives the buffeting of life's journey."

"But after all, why bother with such theorists? They amuse a little, although such stupidities are apt to make one angry. The learned doctor may decide that love is dangerous. He may even decide to attack it like some malignant germ, with a golden serum as an antidote. Let him! It won't make any difference. It won't do any harm."

"While he is busy explaining to his own satisfaction how very evil is this love-making, the world will go its old, old way."

VISIONS CHICAGO AS BIGGEST CITY

Professor Advises Young Men to Come There to Win Fortune in Future

By JOHN D. MUELLER
For International News Service
CHICAGO, May 8.—Young men, come to Chicago! Here lies the newest and greatest land of opportunity. And, with each passing day, opportunity here increases.

This is the "tip" passed on by Dr. J. Paul Goode, professor of geography at the University of Chicago, the world's leading cartographer and gold medalist of the National Geographic Society. Looking into the future, he sees here the greatest port of the world, a metropolis of size unknown to the world today. Chicago, he says, is the "City of Destiny," and it just stands upon the threshold of its greatness.

To Be Great Port

Ten years hence Dr. Goode sees here a city where ships from every land in the world dot a majestic harbor. Great as it is today as a distributing center, Chicago, Dr. Goode asserts, is scarcely beyond the embryonic stage.

Fifty years hence ten millions will make their homes here. The city's limits will have been extended for miles in every direction. The now famous "Loop" will have been abolished. Each corner in the heart of the present business district will vie with State and Madison streets as the "world's busiest." Surface lines will have been elevated into subways; local elevated lines will have two east and west lines meeting two north and south ones in place of the present loop system.

One hundred years hence a series of the most beautiful parks in the world will extend from Milwaukee on the north to Michigan City, Ind., on the south and east, located where today a few light-houses rule the depths of Lake Michigan, but which shall then have been converted into land.

"I see Chicago as the city of greatest opportunity in the world. With her extraordinary location in the center of a rich plain, her strategic position at the end of a marvelous waterway, soon to be connected with the sea, and with the fortunate proximity of great, rich deposits of coal, iron and petroleum, as well as forests and farming resources, Chicago cannot help becoming in a short time the third great commercial center of the earth. Eventually she will surpass London and New York and become the greatest."

Train Crew Is Jailed For Blocking Street

ATLANTA, Ga., May 8.—Chief of Police Beavers recently arrested J. R. Wiley and W. W. Harris, fireman and engineer of the Dixie Flyer for blocking traffic at a street crossing.

Mayor Walter A. Sims has issued a rigid order against trainmen blocking crossings, allowing five minutes for passenger trains and three for freights.

FRENCH FUNERALS MAY BE SPEEDED

Old-Time Slow Procession to Be Replaced by Modern Automobile Busses

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service
PARIS, May 8.—Picturesque and depressing French funeral processions are doomed to disappear, martyrs to modernism, if the suggestions of M. Leon Ritor, a member of the Paris City Council, are adopted by French undertakers and the French public.

In the French procession the corpse is transported from the home to the church and from the church to the cemetery on a simple hearse, drawn by horses. Often the hearse is no more elaborate than the gun caissons used in military funerals.

The mourners walk slowly and sorrowfully behind the remains of their loved ones. Only those few who, on account of old age or infirmities, are unable to walk ride in black carriages.

All Pay Tribute

As the procession passes along the streets of the city passersby stop for an instant in their walk, the men tipping their hats, the women making the sign of the cross.

Ritor's suggestion, which has been passed along by the Municipal Council to the city undertakers' association for consideration, provides motorization for the procession.

Ritor argues it is illogical that the old style procession should exist in this modern age, that it clogs the otherwise busy streets, depresses passersby and works a hardship on the mourners, who often walk many miles behind the hearse in unfavorable weather.

In the procession for Sarah Bernhardt the mourners walked for two hours and a half, in a warm sun, from the Church of St. Francois, in one part of the city, to the cemetery of Pere la Chaise, in an entirely different part of the city, a distance of several miles.

New Plan Favored

Undertakers are eager to adopt the modern procession, according to the newspaper L'Intransigeant, and have proposed providing big auto busses to carry the mourners.

L'Intransigeant interviewed three religious leaders—a Catholic priest, a Protestant minister and a Jewish rabbi—on the question. Only the Catholic priest raised any objection to modernization of the procession.

"I have no major objection to the proposition," he said, "but I will hate to see the old customs cast aside."

"Certainly the present processions are more representative of the sadness and majesty of death," said the Protestant minister, "but the practical advantages of motor processions decide the question."

"It is a material detail against which no objections can be raised," said the Jewish rabbi.

VETERAN GETS ON PAYROLL TWICE

Secures Money From Two U. S. Sources; Unable Now To Pay Sums Back

By J. L. MEDDOFF
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 8.—One case in which a war veteran unwittingly "gypped" astute government officials and, in modern-day parlance, got away with it, has come to light.

John R. Kissinger, of Homer, Mich., served his country well in the Spanish-American war. He was cited for his gallantry in battle and was heralded as "the outstanding hero" of the conflict. But he paid a heavy penalty, becoming a helpless paralytic.

The government in those days apparently being more solicitous of its defenders than it is today, Kissinger was granted a pension of $100 a month by the war department—a considerable sum in days gone by.

Pay From Two Sources

While drawing his $100 a month from the war department, Kissinger, in some yet unexplained manner, got on the payroll of the pension bureau, from which he received $12 a month. He was drawing money from two governmental sources.

Not until recently was this discrepancy discovered, and steps were immediately taken to the amount overpaid Kissinger, which was summed up at $1,699.60.

Kissinger, however, was unable to refund the amount the government, so a mapped out whereby $50 would be deducted from his annuity paid him by the government.

This plan, though, did not appeal to prominent persons who were interested in Kissinger's case, and immediately a test was raised because of the interest of human disabilities contracted by the interest of human science as a volunteer experiment in Cuba.

The intervention of Kissinger in his behalf had shored effect. Officials to deficiences of his plight and the deficiency appropriation was given the partition to continue the of $100 a month to him without any deduction of sums paid contrary to the law.

Which, all in all, puts in the light of having, unknowingly, put one over government, a feat seldom

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur restoring faded, gray hair to natural color dates back to time immemorial. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, lustrous and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by using at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get the famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depend upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.
A well-known downtown drugstore says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody tells it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this rough your hair, taking one at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

SUNLAND WINNER
OF GAME, 9 TO 7

Defeats Pasadena Paint Team in Sunday's Contest; Seven Straight

Sunland continued its winning streak at Tujuanga Sunday when that club defeated the Pasadena Paint team by a score of 9 to 7 in a game that saw-sawed and offered several thrills. This was Sunland's seventh consecutive victory.

Sisler started pitching for Sun-land, but gave way in the sixth to Slim Bradburn, the double-jointed boy wonder. Schumaker pitched six innings and held the wrecking crew fairly well in hand, but he was not overly effective and was replaced in the sixth by Baker, who ran into trouble in the seventh, allowing three runs and getting charged with the defeat.

As usual, the visitors started their day's toil by scoring in the first inning. This has been the procedure for the last several games, but it doesn't seem to affect the result, except to make the home crew hustle the harder and get out from under the two or three runs behind. Then things happen.

Morse, first man up for Pasadena, singled. K. Becker was safe when Dutch Brandstetter kicked his easy roller. Evans sacrificed the runners up a notch. Green singled, scoring Morse and Becker. Ahrens struck out and Green stole second. Baker struck out.
Two runs.

Gets One Back
In the last half of the first, Sunland got back one of the three runs. Bush walked. Phillips sacrificed, Bush making third on the play. Waite singled, scoring Bush. Slim Bradburn, running for Waite, was out at second on an attempted steal. La Fleur was thrown out at first.

Padadena went out in order in their second and Sunland went in and got two more runs, making the score three to two in their favor. Terzo walked and stole second. Leoni walked. Terzo stole third. Leoni stole second and Schumaker began to have misgivings as to the safety of his shoes.

With so many runs around, Slim singled, scoring Terzo. Slim stole second. Brandstetter struck out.
Sisler squeezed Leoni home and
Slim went to third on the play.
Sisler squeezed Leoni home and
Slim went to third on the play.
Sisler squeezed Leoni home and
Slim went to third on the play.

Neither team scored in the third, but only some good work by Terzo and Phillips kept Pasadena down. The visitors scooped one out of the grass and made a slip throw to first that retired K.
Becker and Fred Terzo went after a high fly to the left field fence and took it on a dead run, bringing up against the fence. Pasadena completed a double play in this inning. Evans to Morse to Baker.

In the fourth Pasadena forged ahead again with three runs, making the count 5 to 3. Ahrens doubled to left. Baker popped what looked like a single to short center. Slim Bradburn got under it after a long run, and caught that guy him a hand from the bus.
Sisler hit Mooney in the side.
Waite and Sisler held a conference, and got the low-down on their signals. Schumaker must have overheard the story, as he promptly doubled, scoring Ahrens and Mooney, taking third on the throw-in. D. Becker singled, scoring Schumaker. Morse fled out and K. Becker struck out.
Three runs.

Connects With Pill
Sunland went out in order in their half. Both scored a run in the fifth. Evans opened with a single. Waite and Sisler whispered again in the middle of the diamond, but Green singled, Evans going to third. Green then em-bellized second. Ahrens struck out and Baker walked. Three on and one out. Mooney laid down a perfect bunt and squeezed Evans home. Schumaker ended the uprising by striking out.

In the last half "Dutch" Brandstetter found his batting eye again and doubled to start. Sisler fled out to Ahrens. Bush singled, scoring Dutch, but was thrown out at second trying to stretch his hit to a double. Phillips struck out.
No damage was done in the sixth. With the score 6 to 4 in favor of Pasadena in the seventh, Sunland got busy and put over three runs. Brandstetter fled out to open and Sisler struck out. All the damage was done with two down. Bush then dropped a Texan leaguer back of short and Phillips singled off the ump's neck. Bush scored second. Waite doubled, scoring Bush. La Fleur singled, scoring Phillips and Waite. La Fleur went to second when Green threw the ball wild first in an attempt to catch him off the bag.
Terzo fled out. Three runs and the game, apparently. But Pasadena was not through yet, and made a bid in the eighth, putting over one run and tying the score.
Sisler pitched a perfect game.
when Schumaker started a rally and was safe on Waite's error. D.
Becker singled and was thrown out at second trying to stretch it to a double. Schumaker going to third. Morse sacrificed Schumaker in, tying the score. K.
Becker walked, but Evans struck out.

In the last half of the eighth Leoni struck out. Bradburn singled back of first. Brandstetter singled. Sisler singled, scoring Bradburn and Brandstetter. Sisler was thrown out trying to stretch his hit to a double. Bush

happened to be at the intersection of Brand boulevard and San Fer-strong odor of liquor from a closed delivery car which was coming south on San Fernando said, to San Pedro. They stopped the machine and, dividing the canvas curtains separating the trunk from the rear of the car, they disclosed three fifty-gal-

VAUDEVILLE FOR

Artists Wins Praise
From Audience

The American Legion vaudeville show, given on Friday and Saturday nights, was the best they have produced for some time. The sketches were well acted and the musical and dancing numbers showed real talent.

The show was not as well patronized as it merited, very probably due to the keen competition here in the entertainment line. A new stage was built especially for this show, but instead of being level it was built on a slant,
and this hampered the dancing considerably. Otherwise everything was well done and showed the hard work everyone put into this production to make it a success.

The first was a musical number by Mrs. Scribner and company of girls singing "Glow Worm." Mrs.
Scribner has a very pleasing voice.
Mrs. Leola McDowell, the "Arizona Nightingale," appeared in two whistling numbers, which, as usual, pleased her audience very much. Mrs. McDowell is a very talented whistler.

J. L. Smith, who wrote "My Radio Girl," had some difficulty in securing an engagement as an actor at the "Employment Bureau," conducted by Mr. Wiggins.
He finally succeeded after demonstrating his ability as a singer and saving the life of a horse thief and robber, who repented after forty years, when a posse surrounded him.

Quick-Change Artist
Chas. Keller handed down some important decisions in "Rural Justice," when he caught Kalsomine Lotion (L. H. Fisher) speeding, and haled him into court. As a quick change artist, Mr. Keller probably has no equal on the stage today. He appeared in no less than eleven characters in this act and made the changes with lightning rapidity. He was everything from constable to coroner. Kalsomine finally squared himself by singing and some neat clog dancing.

"The Stowaways" was well acted by Catherine Crews, Winifred Allardice, A. J. Scribner, Jack
Bloodgood and Mr. Keller. Jack Bloodgood gave a very realistic impersonation of an inept yachtman, much to the envy of Scribner, who was, for the time being, carrying a light to the heaven, as a missionary, and upbraided Jack for his wayward tendencies.

Girls presented a very good sketch entitled "Peck's Bad Girl."
These girls have appeared before and display natural talent.

Little Elma Noyes, aged seven, made a distinct hit when she gave a dance number from "Maiden-long" and responded to an encore with a recitation. Miss Noyes appeared through the courtesy of Madame Dowdall, formerly Egan's Dramatic School, but who now has a dramatic studio and school of dancing at 1504 Figueroa street, Los Angeles. This was her first appearance in solo dancing and she had less than thirty minutes rehearsal on the Bolton Hall stage. Owing to the construction of the stage part of the dance had to be eliminated, as the slope made the gymnastic features of the dance unsafe. The dance was revised on short notice and Elma went through it perfectly with practically no rehearsal, which also speaks well for the accompanied, who was Mrs. John-derton.

Miss Helen Rugg, also appearing through the courtesy of the Dowdall school, giving a novelty dance and song number—"Carolina in the Morning"—which was enthusiastically endorsed. Miss Rugg is but fifteen years old and these two girls promise to develop into future stars of the theatrical world. They have appeared at Pasadena hotels, the Virginia, at Long Beach, and in March they appeared at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles in "Name It," a musical review presented by the Southern California Chapter of the Rainbow Division Veterans, under the direction of Donald McDonald, 3.

Miss Rugg made her first professional appearance Friday night at the Hotel Virginia, a previous engagement that prevented her appearance at Bolton hall on this night, and both girls will be featured in solo dancing as a result of the cordial reception given them here.

Mrs. Johnderton was at the piano and accompanied the musical numbers very capably.
The proceeds of this show will go to the fund for purchasing Bolton hall, an undertaking accepted some time ago by Post 250
of the American Legion.

Southern Railway May Extend Present Lines

TAMPA, Fla., May 8.—While there is said to be a contest between rival railroad systems as to which will build a trans-State railway connecting the West and East coasts rumors have been circulated here recently that the Southern Railway, which now reaches only as far south as Hampton, intends immediately connecting up several gaps, which will enable it to run through trains into Tampa from Northern points, using the Seaboard Air Line tracks in some places.

At present through trains are run from Northern and Western points, coming as far on the Southern as Hampton and then coming over the Seaboard tracks, but the new arrangement, it said, will bring the Southern almost directly into this territory.

Homely Old Stepping Stones

Without doubt it would be a very spectacular thing to cross a creek in an airplane. It could hardly be employed, however, by the everyday person.

Most of us are obliged to step across on the well worn stones.
There is no royal road. The way across is like the road to prosperity, usually accomplished by slow and sure methods—by stepping securely on each successive stone until the goal is reached.

Not a stone should be missed.

Regular and systematic savings are these homely old stepping stones. Acquiring the habit of spending a little less than the amount earned and creating a stepping stone with the difference, makes each step easier and creates a feeling of faith and confidence which grows stronger with each successive step.

We have watched many take the first timid step—watched many finish the journey full of confidence. Will you let us help put your feet on the first stone?

Credit Assn. Votes to Take New Designation

Following the presentation of the report by the committee that had been appointed to consider the change of the name of the Glendale Credit Association and the adoption of a program that would widen the scope of activity of the organization, the members present at yesterday's weekly luncheon in the Citizens Building voted to change the name of the association, to the Glendale Merchants' Association, with the Glendale Credit Association remaining as a bureau of the new organization.

The change, it is declared, will permit the new association to engage in lines that will have an important bearing on the development of the commercial life of the city, but no attempt will be made to encroach on the province of any other civic or commercial organization.

The usual routine matters were taken up for consideration.
The members present at the meeting received handsome gifts of cigarettes in individual glass holders from James A. Robinson, proprietor of Robinson's Meats Shop, in commemoration of the opening of his remodeled establishment on South Brand boulevard. The cigarettes were of a very superior brand, with Robinson's name neatly printed on the paper.

That is the conclusion J. L.

prompted him to this decision. It happened because he suggested a wee nip from a half-pint flask.

He told the judge that he was

Community Affairs are to be delightful events and hoped that every resident of the city can possibly do so over and let Hollywood know the people of this city and their organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Potter and family of 729 North Maryland avenue and son, Merle, and Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Maxwell of 129 Burchett street Sunday visited Camp Baldy. Mr. Potter and Mr. Maxwell both work at 460 West Los Feliz road for the Bentley Lumber Company.

Mrs. J. R. Nash of 1728 South San Fernando road has received word that her daughter, Mrs. M. M. Rabourne, is leaving Larimore, Wyoming, so as to be here May 13, which is Mothers' Day.

Work upon the new Gateway Theatre at 1713 South San Fernando road is now being rushed to completion by the Winter Construction Company of Los Angeles. Most of the plastering has been finished and the remainder will be done in a few days. The frame work for the marquee is now in place and the electric sign has been installed. It is estimated that the theatre will be in operation in about six weeks.

Everybody in Oklahoma seems to be moving to Southern California, according to A. L. Forsythe and Harry Enoch, whose place of business at 1410 South San Fernando road is known as the Modern Cleaning & Tailoring Shop. They are both from Hobart, Oklahoma, and Sunday attended a picnic in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, of ex-residents of Lone Wolf. They found forty or fifty people there they knew, many of whom they did not know were in California. "Half the people I knew

EAGLE ROCK

EPISCOPALIANS PLAN TO BUILD

Present Structure at Eagle Rock to Be Moved on Rear of Property

Plans are now complete for a new Episcopal church, to occupy the site of the present structure, which will be moved to the rear of the property. Bids have already been invited for removal and ground will probably be broken for the new building by June 1.

This announcement comes from the Ladies' Guild of the church, and represents the culmination of many months of effort on their part to help raise the necessary funds.

Many food sales, bazaars and other social functions have slowly but surely swelled the treasury to the extent that, in conjunction with other financial arrangements, it now becomes possible to accomplish the dream of a new church.

A final cooked food sale will be held Saturday, May 12, in the Eagle Rock office of The Glendale Evening News, 113 East Colorado boulevard, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild, of which Mrs. J. B. Squire is president.

Many attractive prepared articles of food will be on sale, such as home-made salads, cakes, pies, jellies, jams, pickles, etc.

On their return, a P. E. O. luncheon is to be served Monday, May 14, with Mrs. Lubin of South Hartwick street, at which visiting members of the organization will be welcome. There will be a program in the afternoon.

The next card party to be given at the Women's Twentieth Century club will be an evening affair, Friday night, May 11. Mrs. B. B. Martsoff and Mrs. Ethel Williams are to be hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Harry Phinney and Mrs. F. H. Beach.

The club program for Thursday afternoon, May 10, has been announced as follows: Luncheon speaker, Estella Lawton Lindsay, writer, who will talk on "The Community and the Newspaper," and afternoon speaker, Henry Christen Warkack, author and newspaperman, "The Conscience of the Newspaper."

Hold May Festival
May Day in Eagle Rock brought forth a very beautiful celebration on the lawn adjoining the Occidental college baseball diamond. The queen, robed in white, with purple ruff, her flowing train borne by two train-bearers, preceded by two heralds and six ladies-in-waiting, followed by the crown-bearer and ten dancers, made a most picturesque appearance.

Miss Dorothy Gilbert did a solo dance that was much appreciated and two May Pole dances were given by separate groups of girls. The celebration reached its height when the queen was crowned and the newly-elected officers of the women students' organization were installed.

The May queen was Katherine MacDonald. The training was in charge of Mr. Fardellus, assisted by Miss Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McClinton of 210 North Satsuma avenue, motored to Huntington Beach Sunday, May 6, with their daughter, Miss Eileen McClinton, and son, Hugh McClinton, together with their daughter's chum, Miss Onis Damien. They spent the day with Mrs. McClinton's brother, J. H. Macklin, and enjoyed several hours on the beach.

Harding to Accept World Court Battle
WASHINGTON, May 8.—President Harding is going to the people with the world court issue. Any hopes entertained by dissatisfied Republican leaders that Mr. Harding would "soft pedal" the court issue out of deference to their wishes, has disappeared and the word has been passed through Republican circles that the president is going to the mat with his opponents on his forthcoming western trip.

The president has shown unmistakable signs this week, since his New York speech, has been variously interpreted, of being strongly irritated, not only by the criticisms of disgruntled Republicans, but also by the confident assertions of Democratic spokesmen that going into the court is the first step towards going into the League of Nations. He has consequently determined that his critics—both Republicans and Democrats—will be answered in detail in the speeches he will make across the continent.

Pork Barrel Bills Are Killed by Governor
SACRAMENTO, May 8.—Governor Richardson has killed three highway measures which he termed as "pork barrel" road acts. The vetoed measures were A. B. 972, relating to county roads of Calaveras county; A. B. 336, relating to a road between Tracy and Fresno via Dos Palos, and A. B. 17, relating to a road between San Rafael and San Quentin.

Gold is first mentioned in the eleventh verse of the second chapter of Genesis, 4004 years before Christ.

TODAY—William J. Huske, of Cleveland, writes of the antipathy developing against marathon dancing and comments on the political outlook in Ohio.

TOMORROW—William G. Cayce, of Los Angeles, reports an unprecedented building boom in the Southern California metropolis.

CLEVELAND, May 8.—A wave of protests against the "marathon" dancing craze was sweeping Cleveland in the wake of the recent contests, in which records were hung up only to be turned into "scraps of paper" before the rising of another sun. Objections reaching Mayor Kohler to the continuance of these exhibitions were based not only upon the harmful effect upon the participants physically, but to the actual happenings on the dance floor.

Some of the girl participants, it was asserted, practically changed their entire costumes during the attempts to establish records. Others held close to their partners and were practically carried over the floor, while masseurs were engaged to massage the limbs of the dancers to enable them to keep on after the mythical championship. Two of the "champions for a day" were able to cash in on their temporary fame. Miss Helene Mayer, first Cleveland claimant, received about $600 as her share of the receipts, when she made her record, and theatrical engagements added another $1,000. Miss Madeline Gottschick, whose record was eclipsed within a few hours of being made, was reported to have signed a contract to appear at two theatres for one week, receiving, according to her press agent, a stipend of 2,000. As much as both of these girls were poor the financial returns proved very acceptable.

Cleveland's hopes of securing the Republican national convention were admittedly growing less, when local boosters learned that Chairman John T. Adams, of the Republican national committee, had expressed the view that some other city should be host of the Republican brethren, in 1924, in view of the probable renomination of President Harding, an Ohioan.

Reports here also stated that the President himself was inclined to view the plan of meeting in Cleveland with disfavor. Word was brought here that while Ohio was a great state it really had its full share of the Republican honors when one of its sons was named for the presidency, and it was feared that other states, perhaps more doubtful in their political alignment than Ohio, should get the convention. While Republican convention boosters were having cold water thrown on their hopes, Democrats, for the same reason, were feeling that their chances were growing brighter. It was being pointed out to party leaders that it would be of immense tactical advantage to bring the leaders of the Democratic party to President Harding's own state and that thereby the chances of carrying Ohio a year from November would be greatly enhanced.

Cleveland, largest city in Ohio, and fifth in population among American municipalities, next January goes under a new form of government, including a city council of twenty-five members, elected by proportional representation, and a city manager. The charter changes voted by the people in November, 1921, have been declared valid by the state supreme court.

Election by proportional representation is a new thing so far as voters here are concerned, and proponents of the charter changes, as well as the county board of elections, have established schools to tell the voter how to make his vote count. Chief Clerk A. J. Hirstius, of the board of elections, has announced that the counting of the ballots will be a herculean task and has asked the mayor for the use of the public hall—the largest auditorium in the United States—for the army of clerks who will be employed in making the count.

The city will have no mayor after next January, a city manager, chosen by the council, performing executive and administrative functions. Mayor Fred Kohler, while denying he has any aspirations beyond completion of his present term, is generally believed to harbor managerial ambitions. The fact that during his first year in office he turned an operating deficit of approximately $1,000,000 into a surplus of $250,000 will be used by his friends as a strong argument that he should be entrusted with the new job.

The city manager, subject to council approval, will choose all department heads.

Glendale Nature Notes

By ESTELLE DARRAH DYKE, 405 East Stocker St., Glendale

A kindly motorist in the neighborhood of Verdugo park last Monday stopped his car when he saw two ladies intent upon some important search, aided by powerful field glasses. Was it hidden treasure? Or one of the lost Spanish gold mines abounding in the West? Or an eclipse? Or an airplane procession? Or was it some valuable personal belonging? He was about to proffer his help when he noticed a dozen similar groups, all using field glasses in some anxious quest. Then he learned the facts of the case.

The Southwest Museum Bird club had come out on masse to welcome a family of travelers, so shy and elusive that great caution was necessary in approaching them, and it was a good three-hour task to make their acquaintance. The migrants are known as the Mniotiltidae family, but most of us prefer to speak of them as wood warblers. Some are permanent residents here. A few have come intending to remain all summer. Those whose family cares take them to the Far North are so charmed with Glendale that they will visit us again in the fall, and bring their children with them.

These tiny warblers are classed by Henshaw in the "First place, as preservers of the forest." After watching them for a half-day one understands why. They are incessantly active in their pursuit of destructive insects, singing their little song, sweet and low, as they search every crack and crevice of each twig where they work for their noxious prey. Insect eggs, plant lice, scales, ants, caterpillars, beetles, flies—no disciple of Hoover in wartime ever made so clean a sweep of the menu.

The wood warbler both handsome and handsome does. Over fifty species are listed among our western birds, and all are notable for their brilliant coloring. Nevertheless, it is difficult to see them, as their tiny bodies are so easily hidden in foliage and their voices are soft and do not carry far.

We found one of the handsomest in the group last Monday, the yellow warbler, and the long-tailed chat, whose olive green back contrasts finely with his bright yellow breast. The chat is the most amusing of birds. He has an extensive vocabulary which he uses almost as effectively as a cocking bird. He has also the mocking bird's curiosity. It is great fun to sit near his hiding place while he chatters to you and about you. He is a ventriloquist, and his voice appears to come from above or below, from afar or near by, regardless of his position. If you stay quietly by, he will finally come out boldly to study you, thus giving you your longed-for opportunity to study him. At last, with a saucy jerk of his long tail, he apparently dismisses you as unworthy so much attention, and flies away to his work.

While the goal of the Audubon societies is the protection and conservation of bird life, I doubt if they would spend as much time studying bird habits and bird needs were it not for the satisfaction of one of the most primitive instincts, the love of the hunt. We have always heard that it is the pursuit of game, human or otherwise, which is the delight of the hunter. An Audubon hunter creeps up on an unknown song or follows a glimpse of retreating feathers, too fleeting for identification. So, even as Nimrod in the dawn of history, we stalk our game. "Sh! Don't even whisper," warns our leader. The song is repeated, and we creep stealthily in its direction. But some thing betrays us, and again our bird eludes us. "Raise your feet entirely from the ground, and put them down very softly," advises our leader, and "piano, pianissimo, we tread the rustling grass toward the song, only to have it stop abruptly.

"It is a mistake to wear a white waist on a bird trip," opines our leader, and the white waist falls to the rear, where it will not frighten our bird. We move on now in perfect order, and are rewarded by an instant view of our quarry. "Never point at a bird," cautions our leader as once more we startled our feathered friend. All our blunders have now been committed, so we move on, treading softly, guarding silence, dark clothing to the front, and actually confronting our bird, on in plain sight on a leafless branch, where we can watch his flitting and fluttering until temporarily dizzy and blind. And what a triumph if our group is the only one that has noted him!

The joy of finally running down our game rivals our first view of the bird, nor is it succeeded by our repugnance to death most of us feel even when we kill for food.

Misunderstandings are bound to occur at times. "See that bird in the most southern twig of the willow," says our leader. "Yes, it is a little gray bird. It must be the least vireo." "Oh no, he has a bright yellow breast." "He is certainly gray." "Your glasses must discolor colors." And so we argue, long and loud, like the "Six men of Hindustan."

To learning much inclined, Who went to see the elephant, Though all of them were blind."

But a step to the left settles the trouble, for now both of us see the two tiny friends of the forest at work on the same twig, the yellow warbler and the least vireo.

Our morning netted us forty-five different birds, several of rare beauty. The Arizona hooded oriole, most beautiful of his family, flew past us several times. His cousin, the Bullock oriole, resembling the Eastern Baltimore oriole, is also with us. The

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHAVING SOAP

The Wozzie Wolf met the Fuzzy Fox in the woods one day, and the Fox had fallen asleep outside the bungalow. And, as it happened, Uncle Butter, the gentleman goat, came along and saw the bad animal, and Uncle Butter guessed why the Fox was there.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" whispered the goat gentleman as he skipped softly into the bunny's bungalow. "The Fox is asleep outside."

"Is he?" whispered Mr. Longears. "Then I'll play a trick on him."

"No, no, I suppose not! I beg your pardon!" went on the Wolf. "But suppose you would like to do something to Uncle Wiggily to pay him back for what he did to you, wouldn't you, Mr. Fox?"

"Indeed I would! Just give me the chance!"

"I think your chance has come right now," proceeded the Wolf. "I just hopped past the rabbit's hollow stump bungalow. He was standing at an open window sharpening himself. He had soapy lather all over his face, and soon he will begin to trim his whiskers off with his razor."

"Well, what am I to do?" inquired the Fox.

"Sneak up there!" whispered the Wolf, looking around in the wood to make sure no one heard. "Then, all of a sudden, while Uncle Wiggily is shaving himself, you give a loud shout of 'Boo!' This will make Uncle Wiggily jump. If he is using the razor he will cut himself as he jumps. Or, if he is using the brush, he'll jiggle some soap in his eyes so he can't see. Either trick will do."

"Oh, ho!" snickered the Fox. "I understand! If he cuts himself or gets soap in his eyes he'll be so flustered that I can easily nibble his ears."

"That's right," said the Wolf. "Come on, do it!"

"But don't you try this trick yourself?" asked the Fox of the Wolf, beginning to get suspicious.

"Oh, I'll let you try it, and if you have good luck then I may try," said the Wolf. But the truth of the matter was that he was afraid Uncle Wiggily would be brave and would either splash soap in the eyes of the bad chap himself or cut him with the razor.

"Very well," said the Fox at last. "I'll try and see what I can do."

Off he went, through the woods very softly until he came to the bunny rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow. Surely enough, there was Uncle Wiggily in a window shaving himself with white, lathered soap.

But the day was warm, the sun black headed grosbeak set the air about with his vibrating with his exquisite song, and goldfinches, flycatchers, and woodpeckers, contributed colorful effects, as did the several species of warblers we had come forth to see. Two mourning doves sat quietly at a little distance and interest, flying only when we were directly beneath them. The "Bird beam of the summer day, plumed with beauty and with fire," as John Vance Cheney calls the humming bird, was with us all the morning. We noted four different species, the "I'll yell 'Boo!' and scare him, so that he cuts himself. Then I'll nibble his ears."

But the day was warm, the sun black headed grosbeak set the air about with his vibrating with his exquisite song, and goldfinches, flycatchers, and woodpeckers, contributed colorful effects, as did the several species of warblers we had come forth to see. Two mourning doves sat quietly at a little distance and interest, flying only when we were directly beneath them. a strange and heart-rending drama, translated to the screen by a master director. It was adapted to the screen from the book of short-stories, of the same title, by John Russell, a book that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle called "The best book of yarns since King's 'Plain Tales from the Hills.'"

Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro play the leading roles.

A young man was keeping company with the daughter of a minister, says Judge, and was frequently at the house to tea. He had a bad habit of helping himself to food before grace. One night, in saying grace, the minister varied it a little, and said: "For what we are about to receive, let us be thankful. For what the young man has already received, let us be doubly thankful."

A farmer asked a boy who had just graduated from high school what the head of the class was called. The young graduate attempted to explain that the one who made the highest average was the valedictorian, and that the one who made the next highest average was the salutatorian. "Well," said the farmer, "that's pretty good. Are they sisters?" Judge.

Dempsey-Gibbons Promoters Cannot Make Profit On Scrap, Claim

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, May 8.—The question of whether the Dempsey-Gibbons bout have a frayed cuff in the family closet or are merely publicity men's ploy, the P. T. Barnum policy seems to have confused the local minds. All are agreed, however, that the business of making money does not enter into the matter; all, that is, except the exception of Jim Corbett, old manager, William A. Brady, who is now a theatrical producer and, therefore, will believe nothing or anything. Brady is inclined to give the promoters a chance to reach the final "clear" in spite of the fact that they must go $500,000 out in the Dempsey-Gibbons bout, a raffle of $300,000 and the incidental expense of conducting a championship bout.

It is no sure bet that the bout will not be a financial success," declared today. "The promoters have Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Butte, Helena, Great Falls, Winnipeg to draw from, with the possibility that Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Omaha will wish thousands of fans. A heavyweight championship fight likely to draw, no matter where it is held."

Advertising Shelby, however, Tex Rickard, most of the promoters, and James W. Walker, male of the boxing and baseball of New York, are in rather a disagreement with the rest of the worthy Mr. Brady. He can see anything ahead of Shelby but a good time by all, and a large profit. They state that Shelby is seeking advertising, as was the case with field, Nev., when Rickard noted the Gans-Nelson fight. "I don't see how the promoters hope for a profit under the circumstances," Rickard said. "They have to fill the arena at a cost of $20 to $50 and I don't see how they will."

The Jeffries-Johnson fight at drew only 19,000 persons the Willard-Dempsey bout at did not attract anything in the receipts anticipated. In instances I had far more favorable results for transportation from large cities, my expenses much less and the attraction better than the one in question."

Some of the rank and file are of opinion that a part of the money guarantee is the well-known letter in this, they reckon without Jack Kearns. When they come down to a question of making a contract, Jack deals only in the money of the finest.

Prosperity Ahead For Farmers, Said

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 8.—Says for farmers are better at any time since the World War according to Henry Cantwell, secretary of agricultural affairs here before the National Agricultural Editors' association. "The prices of cotton and corn are fifty per cent higher than a year ago," he said. "The move the farms to industry during the past year has helped a deal. The drift is tending to decrease the output and raise the price."

American Golfer Moves One Step Nearer Title on Links at Deal

For International News Service
DEAL, England, May 8.—Francis Ouimet blazed an additional bit of trail toward the British amateur golf championship today when he won his second round match from Bernard Darwin of Woking, one of the most potential of the British entries. The score was 73 up and 2 to play, and Ouimet, more serious and determined than he has ever appeared to be in a tournament on this side of the water, was master of the situation almost from the opening shot.

He lost the first hole because of a strong-armed approach, but four beautiful, long and accurate tee shots on the second, third, fourth and fifth gave the Boston ace four holes in succession and a lead of 3 up at the end of the fifth. Darwin, who, with Willie Hunter, Colin Aylmer and others, was one of the obscure players to rise to fame and fortune in the 1921 championship, never recovered the ground he lost during the American's streak of straight hitting.

Fist Fight Enlivens Giant-Philly Game

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—A fist fight between "Casey" Stengel, Giant outfielder, and Lefty Weimer, Philadelphia pitcher, delayed the game between the Giants and Philadelphia yesterday afternoon and required the joint efforts of uniformed policemen and players of both teams before the combatants were parted.

In the fourth inning, Stengel, who had been hit with a pitched ball in his previous time at the plate, declared Weimer had attempted to "bean" him and threw his bat at the pitcher and ran toward Weimer. Weimer met him half way and they showered each other with body blows. Both players were put out of the game by the umpires.

Wealthy Broker Dies In Hollywood Suicide

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—Firing two shots from a .32 calibre automatic pistol into his head, Joseph Hardebek, 62, a wealthy broker living in Hollywood, killed himself in the bathroom of his home. At the time of the suicide the Hardebeks were entertaining several house guests who had spent the night with them. Hardebek locked himself in the bathroom and immediately his wife heard two shots fired. With the assistance of Miss Julia Berry, one of the guests, Mrs. Hardebek broke into the room and found her husband dying on the floor with two bullet holes in his head. He did not recover consciousness.

This might be labeled "Heavy-weight Week." For if the four leading contestants who will fight for the Milk Fund at Yankee Stadium in New York City May 12 should jump on the scales at one time—providing the beam could stand the strain—they would register somewhere in the vicinity of 890 pounds of raw, fighting beef on the hoof.

Because Willard at one time held the heavyweight title, his match with Floyd Johnson has worked up a keen interest among the fight fans. But the margin of interest is mighty small between the headline bout and the semi-final. This match is also to be fifteen rounds to a decision, the principals being one Luis Firpo, giant Argentinean, and Jack McAuliffe of Detroit.

By knocking out Bill Brennan at Madison Square Garden last winter, Firpo performed a feat that no other man was ever able to accomplish. A guy named Dempsey did it twice. This stamped Firpo as a real contender among heavyweights, and now if he can put McAuliffe away he will be but a few fights away from a match with the champion.

The South American is a giant, six feet three and one-half inches tall, weighs around 218, has a forty-six-inch chest, and for his size is fairly active. Luis can punch, but when too anxious he is inclined to forget what little he does know about boxing and to swing his monstrous fists at his opponent as a cave man would. Being a huge, towering fellow, these blows usually fall on the back of the recipient's head and neck. A blow delivered thus is known as the "rabbit punch." It is very dangerous and very unpopular with the fans. When Firpo used it against Brennan he was roundly booed by the crowd.

Firpo has legitimate blows in his bag of tricks with which he could knock K. O. most any ringman without calling into play the rabbit punch. He can deliver an uppercut that would do justice to Jack Johnson in his prime, and boy, how he can sock with his right! Firpo is not a straight puncher and he lays himself open when delivering a blow, for he seldom uses his left and his skill as a boxer is practically nil.

If McAuliffe can jab straight and true and is a bit fast on his feet—and, from his record of sixteen knockouts in seventeen battles, he evidently possesses a wallop—Firpo will have a tough battle on his hands, for this same McAuliffe about matches the South American's huge proportions.

Little is known of McAuliffe. What fighters he has met, with the exception of Floyd Johnson, over whom he won a decision, and Hugh Walker, have been fourth-raters. But that does not prove that had Jack met better men he would not have come out victorious.

He is but twenty-two years of age, six feet three inches tall, and has one of the longest reaches on record; it measures thirty-three and one-half inches. This boy has never been knocked down. He is a rushing, tearing thumper from going to gong—and an Irishman. And whenever there's an Irishman mixed up in a rumpled there's a real scrap in store for the fans.

Marshland unused for 2500 years in Italy, will be drained so that over 6000 acres of this area will be made productive.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Peters of Salt Lake leads the Pacific coast batters who have played in twenty-five or more games this week. In twenty-nine games he has a percentage of .387. Ellison of San Francisco has a percentage of .350 in 30 games; Valla, San Francisco .374 for 30 games; Strand, Salt Lake .373 for 30 games; and Twombly, Los Angeles .370 for 26 games. The next five are: Lane, Seattle .356 for 29 games; Leslie, Salt Lake .356 in 30; Wilcox, Salt Lake .356 in 30; Compton, San Francisco .355 in 27 and King, Portland .355 in 25 games.

Government Acts in Strike of Seamen

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—The United States government has taken a hand in the Los Angeles marine strike, it became known with the announcement that the department of justice operatives had taken up the vigil in the harbor.

This fact and the reports that Base Commander Eric L. Barr had sought authority to place naval guards about strikebreakers when they arrived to assume the task of loading and unloading the ships, served to create the impression among observers that the situation is sufficiently grave to permit of government attention.

In twenty-two years there have been 150 known cases of poison produced by the bacillus of botulism, 111 of which resulted in death.

There are 308,000 words in "Vanity Fair," according to a book reviewer's estimate.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The proposed Dempsey-Gibbons match to be pulled off at Shelby, Montana, suggests a repetition of the result at the Dempsey-Carpentier with all the elements of uncertainty that attached to the latter affair missing. Carpentier was an unknown quantity as far as American followers of the ring were concerned. While there were few who thought that the Frenchman could beat Dempsey, still there was considerable speculation as to the capabilities of Carpentier with the result that there were a few who figured that he might have a chance.

There is nothing of this sort in the case of Gibbons vs. Dempsey and it is doubtful if there is a single sports writer who gives Gibbons a lookin'. If there is any crowd at the bout it will be drawn there entirely for the reason that a champion will be in action which seems to be sufficient of an inducement for some ring fans to be among those present.

The fact of the matter is there is no match for Dempsey among the present day heavyweights and any bout that is arranged must be a mere or less one-sided affair and those who pay their money to see it do so with their eyes open and have no reason to complain if the event turns out to be a farce, or a massacre.

Babe Ruth made his record of 59 home runs in the season of 1921. He made five homers in his first thirteen games of the season. His first 13 games this year have netted him only two which is something of a handicap to start with. In 1921 he made 12 home runs in his first 25 games. It will be interesting to see where he stands this year on his 25th game. It is better than dollars to doughnuts that he will not be near the mark.

With the surface soil soft at the present time owing either to spring rains or late frosts, now is the season when hundreds of dollars in damage is done on various golf courses unless every precaution is taken to prevent it. The mere weight of a man will, in many instances form depressions which, when the ground hardens, are most difficult to iron out and make smooth again. Greens committees should enforce a rule keeping players off the fairways and greens until sun and wind have had time to harden the ground to the necessary extent. This is one of the instances where haste makes for delay for the reason that it will be necessary later to make the repairs and then there will come another time when it will be impossible to play. It is an annual occurrence but, strange to say, the lesson seems not to have been learned in many instances.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Every Saturday during the present track and field season many records are broken. True, few if any of the standard events records have been broken, but the performances being made are so high class that even a standard record broken would create little or no surprise.

There are many experts who believe that the standard events are now set at such a mark that it will take a phenom to break them. When you find a high school boy who does practically thirteen feet in the pole vault, then it is reason to wonder if the experts are right. This happened only a few days ago at Santa Ana, Calif., when Harry Smith of the San Diego High school leaped 12 feet 11 1/2 inches, a new world record for the pole vault for a high school boy.

The relay records are easier to break in most instances than the regulation track or field events for the reason that it is only in recent years that attention has been paid to relay racing. In this regard no less than three world mark records were broken on Saturday, April 28, at two meets. The world marks broken and now credited are:

Four hundred and forty yards, 42 3/10 seconds, University of Illinois. One mile, 3:16 9-10, University of Iowa. Two miles, 7:48 4-5, Pennsylvania State. Besides these marks, the University of Illinois 880-yard relay team set a new American record of 1:27 5-10 seconds. The American javelin record has steadily been cut down in the last few years, due primarily to the fact that the American javelin throwers are only starting to get the knack of throwing this implement and ere long it would not be a surprise to see an American wrest the world record honors in this event from the men of Finland who now hold the record and are recognized as the world's greatest throwers of the spear.

Last Saturday M. Angier of the University of Illinois broke his own American javelin record with a new javelin record with 203 feet 9-12 inches, this being the greatest distance the spear has ever been thrown in this country.

The athletic world still remembers that great hurdler of a few years ago, Fred Kelly of the University of Southern California and the Los Angeles Athletic Club. In Los Angeles this week Kelly showed he is still a great hurdler by setting a new world mark at 8 3/5 seconds for the 70-yard high hurdles. He was forced to do this, and, strange to say, by an old-time national champion hurdler, Peg Murray, formerly of Standard University and the San Francisco Olympic Club.

All those records in one day would indicate that the present-day athletes are not behind those of other years. It shows that the athletes of this country are improving in relay running and in other events as well. The tenth of a second watch now being used instead of the fifth second as of old may be the means and the only way some of the standard records can be broken. The new watch and the ability of American athletes will break records if it is humanly possible to do so.

TAGGING ALL BASES

While the Giants were mauling two Philadelphia pitchers, Casey Stengel undertook to make a personal issue of mauling another Phil, Weimer, whom he charged with throwing the "bean ball" in the fourth inning. The Giants won easily, 18 to 3, Bentley pitching his first victory for the Giants.

The Indian won in a walk from the Browns, 13 to 3, Uhle holding the visiting firemen to seven hits.

The elder Babe Adams confined the Cardinals within bounds and pitched the Pirates to an 11 to 4 decision. Grimm got three hits, thus running his consecutive hitting streak through 20 games.

Dauis pitched his fifth victory of the season and the Tigers beat the White Sox, 8 to 4.

In a nonstop base circling contest, the Dodgers finally outlasted the Braves and won, 12 to 11.

Women Open Boycott On Sugar Gougers

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—The gentler members of organized labor in Los Angeles rolled up their sleeves and openly defied the sugar trust, when the Woman's label league, local 36, announced a rigid sugar boycott.

In a resolution signed by Mrs. Ida L. Walker, president of the league, and Ethel A. Holmes, secretary, the members are pledged to return to war sugar rations, and not to let up in their boycott until the sugar prices take a slump.

Grammar Board Will Hold Session Tonight

The Board of Education will meet tonight in its offices at 109-A South Brand boulevard to discuss matters pertaining to the grammar school system.

The monthly report of Miss Helen S. Tupper, school nurse, will be received. This states that she has made seventy-five home visits, sixty-seven school visits, examined eighty-two children, given twenty-eight treatments, and issued 199 health permits during April. It asserts that she found fifteen former defects remedied, and observed fourteen new cases of defective vision, five new cases of wrongful breathing, six children in need of dental work, and seventeen new cases of throat trouble and one new case of lung trouble. A hundred cases of communicable diseases were under her observation. Of this number seventy-one were cases of measles. Twenty-four were cases of chicken-pox, four were cases of mumps and one was a case of scarlet fever.

COMMENT That's All

Hazing Brings Out Beast Fear Keeps Mouths Closed Richest Man In The World Overdose Of Education?

By Gil A. Cowan

FROM news accounts appearing during the last week, a student at Northwestern University, Illinois, was evidently slain, perhaps unintentionally, during a class rush and hazings which followed. The proof of this is yet to be established, but it is easy to presume that it did happen as the result of over-zealous hazing, whipped to fury by class battle and human blood lust.

It only goes to prove a contention held by the writer for years, that hazing, class rushes, and fraternity initiation where the element of fear is used, are nothing more nor less than bestial.

The beast that is in us—and it is there—gives way when we are permitted to kick some noisy in the "slats". All of the desires of human passion are stirred when we see a "brother" writhe in agony as a hot iron is held over his naked body and ice sears his skin and shocks his mentality, only to learn later that it was a tremendous hoax.

We could name the boy, who at a local school was actually burned in his struggles. He will probably carry the scar through life. And we could name a man whose hand was torn by being dropped through a trap at an initiation with blood poison resulting. And we could name the woman who now is in a hospital for the insane as the result of a letter sent her husband by a recently organized secret order.

The general public does not learn of these incidents, which are whispered about. Too many of our so-called "big men" condone such things. They have participated in these orgies of passion and refuse to break up the system by which they exist. Behind closed doors they have witnessed things which should put every mother's son of them to shame.

Certainly, there is something lacking in the moral fiber of most of us which permits these unspeakable things to continue, but who is there to protest. Representatives of the law often are included in the attendance.

And the others keep a close mouth for FEAR. Fear of ostracism, fear of retaliation, fear of disgrace, mortal fear of following in the footsteps of the boy whose body has been found under the pier.

It is time for honest, conscientious, moral men. It is time to make every school, fraternity, lodge or other organization free of fear. Many of them have done so, to their everlasting credit.

For is not the true fun, the good spirit, the real happiness of pleasant associations in club or secret order much more to be desired than maudlin merrymaking and the like?

Henry Ford now is acclaimed as the richest man in the world, possessing $750,000,000 in earthly wealth. That is a great deal of power for one man to control, for money is power.

However, Henry Ford is not abusing his trust the way many of those who have only a few millions. He is making his money work for the benefit of many. In establishing better working conditions, in operating railroads and, greater yet, in giving economical means of transportation to thousands he has done something which few rich men can boast.

And, when all is said and done, the man who works for the money alone does not fill a place in this world of ours. Likely enough, he will have little place in the hereafter either historically or heavenly.

Service to fellow man is the real spirit of success. It is the one who makes a world a better place in which to live, even be a humble landscape gardener, who lives on in the thoughts of posterity.

Too few people have any thought of doing something worthwhile. With the most of us morals it is a hand-to-mouth existence. No thought of the future can be found in the minds of nine out of ten. There is no divine spark of inspiration.

What this world needs today is more men, real men, noble in thought and in purpose, dreamers if you please.

But with their dreams they should also work. That is what Henry Ford has done.

The question of immigration today is one of the most potent factors in the future of America. The writer has read what Isaac F. Marcossan has to say on the subject in a current issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

It seems to be his conclusion, as well as that of others, that this nation is suffering from an overdose of education. The same idea is expressed in the current issue of Harper's Monthly.

But when Governor Richardson of California said as much, in a brusque way of his own, there was a howl which shook the very foundations of the school houses from Siskiyou to San Diego. People could hardly believe their ears when they heard that most of our education is being wasted.

It is a fact, folks, we have builded on the wrong principle. We have professionalized the multitude. We have gained an autocacy of knowledge without realizing the imminence of peril which lies therein.

This nation needs to do an "about face." It must immediately resort to non-professional education. And that's that.

There is no need in this great, free country of ours for strikes. There is no reason for syndicalism. There is no excuse for sabotage. And there is no place for idlers.

Likewise, there is no need for idle capital, no reason for stock market gambling, no excuse for blacklists and no place for those who would patronizingly socialize our government.

We speak reservedly of these wealthy theorists who finance the communists, for lack of something better to do. The writer could name a dozen in this state. They are among our editors, our bankers and our socially select.

Again, the commentary, they are the result of an overdose of education, with which we are riding to a fall unless divine providence intervenes.
